Delfina Cuero

Her Autobiography
An Account of Her Last Years and Her Ethnobotanic Contributions
by Florence Connolly Shipek

“My name is Delfina Cuero. I was born in xamaca’ [Jamacha] about sixty-five years ago [about 1900]. My father’s name was Vincente Cuero, it means Charlie.”

“With simple elegance the story of a Kumeyaay woman from the San Diego region engulfs the reader, until we feel as though we are sitting at the feet of some great-aunt or grandmother as she tries to pass onto us something of worth from her life.”

Glimpses of History

The San Geronio Pass
in the 19th Century

Announcing the Release of Our Latest Title:

Glimpses of History

The San Geronio Pass in the 19th Century
by Betty Kikumi Meltzer and Louis Doody

Based on several years of research, Glimpses of History focuses on the story of the Cahuilla people of Southern California’s San Geronio Pass. It was originally intended as a resource for students in the Beaumont and Banning communities, but in the course of the research, the authors realized that Cahuilla history encompassed a much larger area and would have significance for the residents of Southern California from the Pacific Coast to the Colorado River.

The authors have tried to make Glimpses of History readable and appealing both to students and to adults with a general interest in the history of Southern California’s native people. That is why it is organized into five brief chapters that highlight Cahuilla leaders and their interaction with the newcomers to the region in the 19th century.

This work sheds light on three periods that profoundly affected the fate of the Cahuilla people: the short period of Spanish rule from 1819 to 1821, the Mexican period from 1821 to 1848 — an era of grand ranchos; and the American period from 1848 to 1892.

The authors, Betty Meltzer and Louis Doody, invite you now to explore these important periods in our local history in this work and its soon-to-be-released companion volume, Losing Ground.
